

Subject: Have you Submitted Your GS1 System Readiness Scorecard for Foodservice?

Visibility to the status of individual foodservice company's readiness is important in order to gauge where the industry is, and help us identify areas we can help to facilitate adoption of the GS1 Standards. Scorecards have been developed to help companies voluntarily share their GS1 Standard adoption activity status as part of the Foodservice GS1 US Standards Initiative.

If you HAVE NOT yet submitted your readiness scorecard, please fill out the appropriate form (manufacturer, distributor or operator) available on the Foodservice website (www.GS1US.org/foodservice/FSscorecard). You will have the option of making your contact information available in case your trading partners have additional questions regarding your company readiness. Email the completed form to foodservice@GS1US.org.

If you HAVE submitted your readiness scorecard – THANK YOU! You can update it at any time, but please do so at least once a quarter. Reminders will be sent out by GS1 US and the associations.

The summaries are posted and available on the GS1 US Foodservice website (www.GS1US.org/foodservice/FSscorecard) for access by all. If you have questions, please contact Denise Perez at dperez@GS1US.org or (609) 620-4517.

For those not currently involved in the Foodservice GS1 US Standards Initiative, we encourage you to learn more about it at: www.GS1US.org/Foodservice. We look forward to your continued participation in this important foodservice community effort.

Best Regards,
